Considered living.

Considered design. Quality we stand behind.

A RENOVATION STORY

The handle arrived wrong.

Wrong size. Wrong finish. The installer charged about A$140 to come back and fit the new one.

THE PROBLEM

Good design from overseas is hard to buy with confidence.

01

Details are unclear

Sizes, materials and certificates are often missing from the maker’s page.

02

Condition is a gamble

You first see the product when it arrives, after you’ve paid.

03

Nobody owns delivery

Freight, damage and returns fall back on the buyer.

A REAL LISTING

A brass handle page we read gave its size as “In Parameter Diagram”, and claimed CE and RoHS with no certificate numbers.

WHO HAS THE PROBLEM

One shop. Every kind of job.

01 Plumbers

Towel rails, robe hooks, toilet roll holders and shower shelves for bathroom fit-outs.

02 Builders

Door levers, hinges, door stops and house numbers, sent straight to site.

03 Renovators

Cabinet handles, knobs and soft-close hinges to refresh a kitchen or vanity.

04 Homeowners

Pick what you like, pay online and it arrives at your door.

Buying for a job? Send us a project list and we quote it, usually within 48 hours.

WHY WE KNOW IT IS A PROBLEM

We lived it before we built it.

01 · WE TRIED IT OURSELVES

Windows and staircases first

We started by sourcing windows and staircases from overseas makers. In week 9 the feedback was clear: too many risks, start small.

02 · EVEN THE EXPERTS GIVE UP

Our tutor paid retail

Tried to buy glazing direct from a factory in China, could not reach one, and bought it at retail instead.

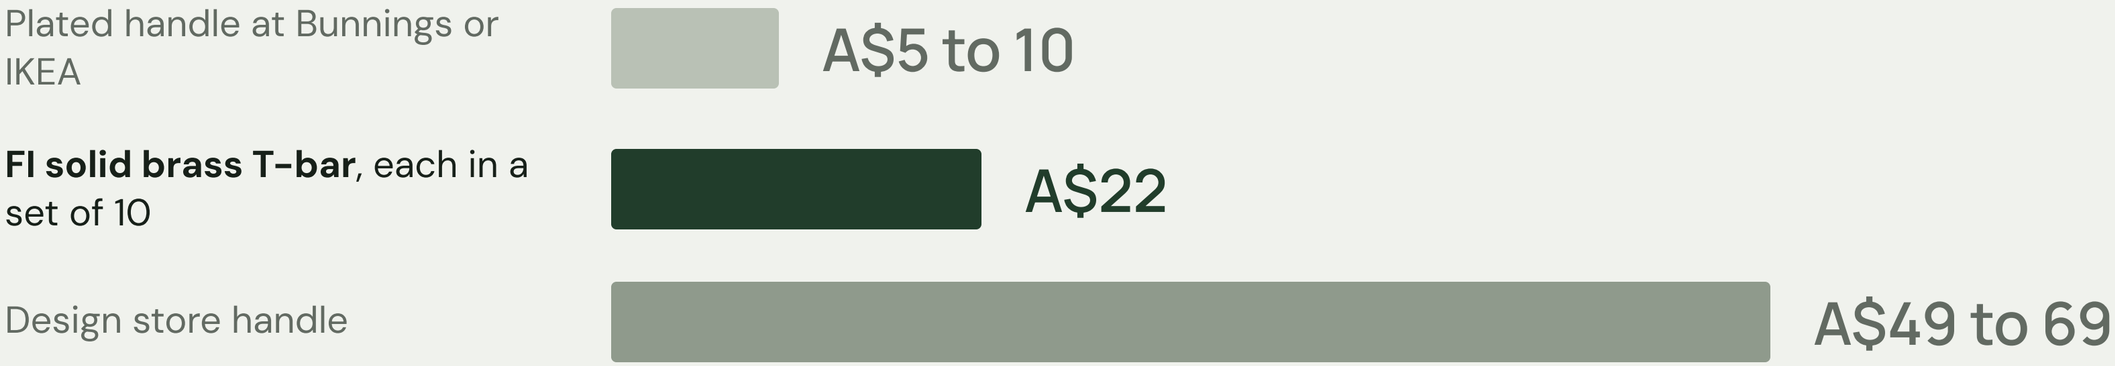

03 · THE LISTINGS PROVE IT

Claims without proof

On a live Made-in-China listing, CE and RoHS were claimed with no certificate numbers.

WHAT THE PROBLEM COSTS

Pay too much, or pay twice.

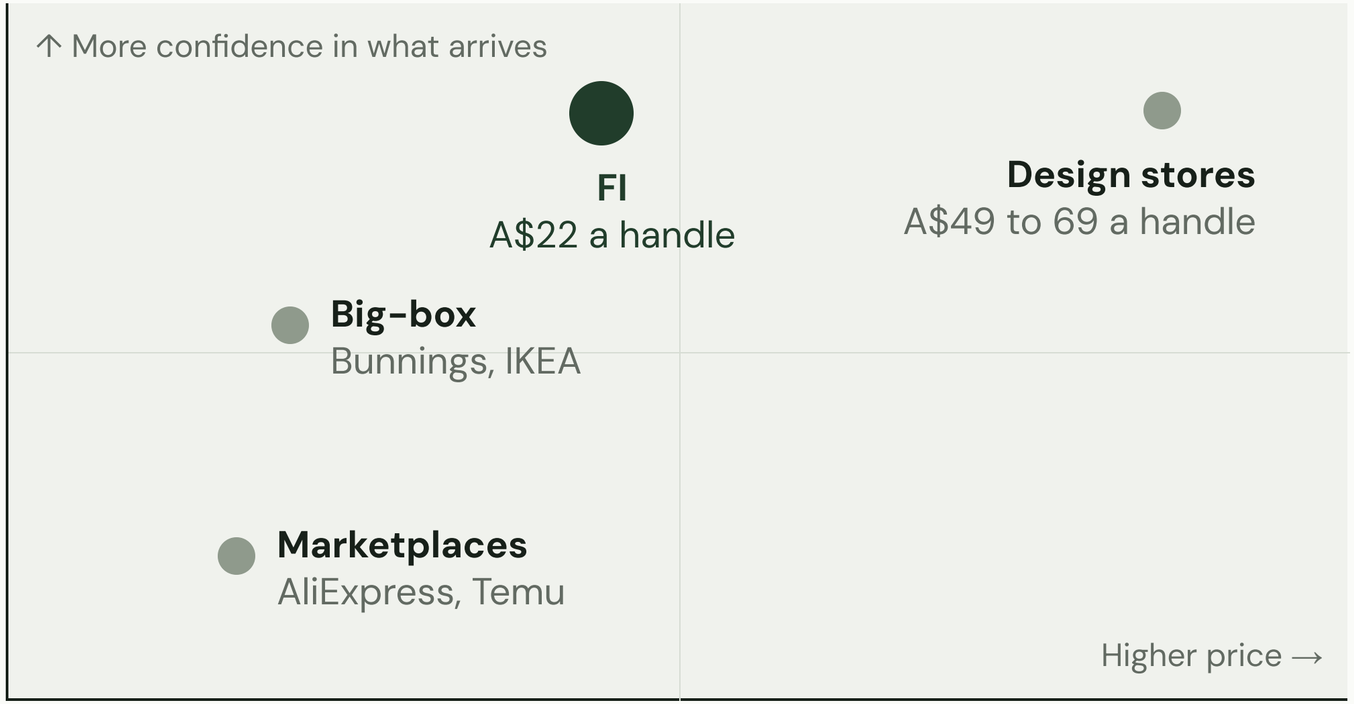

GETTING IT WRONG

About A$140 for the installer to come back, on top of the wrong part and the wait for a new one.

HOW WE STAY HONEST

Honest by design.

MAKERS	Every listing names its real maker and the country it’s made in.
GAPS	If the maker’s page doesn’t say, we write “not stated”. We never guess.
IMAGES	AI renders and concept images are labelled on the page.
REVIEWS	Only real buyers review, after a delivered order. Our sample reviews are marked fictional.
APPROVAL	Nothing goes live until a person approves it.
